

SyncUp

An agent that understands your company and brings verified people with real proof of work, not AI-optimized PDFs.

The Insight

Everyone is building AI to screen faster.

That's the wrong problem.

Faster screening of fake applications is just faster noise. The only way out isn't a better filter. It's changing what gets screened: verified proof instead of self-reported claims, and an agent that does the work on top of it.

The whole market is optimizing the wrong variable.

The Problem

Gartner says 1 in 4 job applications will be faked using AI by 2028.

100% of them will be optimized to match the exact job description.

Recruiters can't tell who's real

Every application reads as equally qualified, because it was written to match the job description word for word.

No verified identity

A resume or LinkedIn profile confirms nothing. Anyone can claim any degree, any role, any skill.

The cost lands on both sides

Recruiters lose hours screening inflated resumes and chasing candidates who don't qualify. Job seekers send dozens of applications before a single real response.

The system rewards a ~~good resume~~, not real work.

SyncUp is an agent that does the hiring work and gets smarter with every hire.

For companies, an agent that sources, screens, and schedules. For job seekers, a verified profile that gets them found. Each side makes the other stronger.

Sources candidates

From SyncUp's verified pool and a database of 1 billion-plus profiles

Screens for fit

Against your actual hiring bar, not a generic score

Schedules interviews

Handles the back-and-forth. You make the call.

✓ Identity Verified

✓ Education Verified

● Experience Verified (in progress)

For Job Seekers

A profile that proves what you can do, not a PDF that claims it.

Verified once, trusted everywhere

Identity and education verified through DigiLocker, carried as a credential recruiters actually believe.

Show real work, not a resume

Proof of work and demonstrated skills front and center, so what you've built gets seen instead of buried in a pile.

Apply once, track everywhere

Apply to multiple roles with one verified profile, and track every application, on SyncUp or any other platform, from one dashboard.

Verified job seekers get found by the agent, not lost in the pile.

This isn't a feature they can add. It's a model they can't switch to.

LinkedIn & Naukri

Built on self-reported profiles and ad/listing revenue. Verification would cannibalize the model they monetize.

Juicebox, Fabric, Weekday

Built on scraped and aggregated data. You can't verify what you scraped without consent. Their data advantage is their verification ceiling.

SyncUp

Verification is the foundation, not a layer. Every hire adds to a network of who verified whom that no competitor can copy by launching tomorrow.

Data is not the moat. Everyone rents the same profiles.
The accumulated network of verified relationships is.

Traction

Pre-revenue by design. Not pre-proof.

marketing spend

We kept it free through beta to prove the loop works at volume. It does.

Supply came first, organically. Companies are the demand side we monetize at launch. That's the order every marketplace that worked got right.

Trusted by teams across industries

Every company below has used SyncUp.

We don't have to find our customers one at a time.

2,000+

Founders community partnership

They're white-labeling SyncUp's offering on their own site. Every founder hiring is a potential customer, reached through a channel we don't pay for.

1 billion+

Profile reach

The agent isn't limited to our own pool. It sources across a database of over 1 billion profiles, so supply is never the constraint.

Four ways we make money, two of them live today.

PRIMARY

Agent for Recruiters

Subscription and contingency access to the recruiting agent. Paid model activates at launch.

TARGET

50 paid clients signed before launch

• LIVE TODAY

Personalised Recruitment Service

SyncUp acts as the company's recruitment team, handling hiring end to end: sourcing, screening, coordination, and closing. Live today for existing accounts.
